

UNIVERSITY OF NOTTINGHAM EXCHANGE

Academic Exchange Program: Fall/Spring/AY

Sponsored by the College of Arts & Sciences and the Department of History

The Program

Georgia State University students may now study for one or two full semesters at the University of Nottingham as part of an exchange program between the two institutions. Classes are available in politics, international relations, and American studies. With more than 30,000 students, the University of Nottingham is a diverse, world-class teaching and research university that houses one of the United Kingdom's largest schools of politics and international relations. Additionally, Nottingham's strength in American studies allows GSU students to place their knowledge of U.S. history, culture, and institutions in a broader comparative context. Nottingham is a thriving city conveniently located in the heart of England. Living there provides a great mix of city life and traditional English culture. Nottingham Castle hints back to the city's historical importance, the legend of Robin Hood fascinates all visitors, and thriving sporting, theatre and restaurant scenes mean you will never run out of things to do. The city has excellent transport links—London is just an hour and a half by train, the nearby East Midlands Airport provides cheap and easy connections to destinations across Europe.
