THE PROGRAM

Victorian London’s Underworld will examine nineteenth-century British literature that focuses on segments of the London population who were dispossessed, at the bottom of the socio-economic ladder: orphans, pickpockets, prostitutes, theater people, occultists. We’ll explore Victorian streets, alleyways, homes, music halls, and museums to learn about how the underclass lived. Victorian experiences will come to life through the educational walking tours like the Jack the Ripper Tour and the Darkest Victorian London Tour. Stepping into the shoes of a homeless orphan or downtrodden prostitute will make the Victorian literature we study more understandable with cultural and historical knowledge.
